

Heart of Pan

This ancient heart of bronze is crudely formed like clay moulded by hand. Too big to be a human heart no tools were used in its forging and the soot marks from the fire are still visible. Heavy like a stone it sometimes feels warm to the touch when handled. Holding it for any length of time you begin to hear ghostly drums far away on the edge of your hearing.

This is a huge battery of earth quintessence; it may only be used, sacrificed or committed wholly, it cannot be divided. It represents fifty earth quintessence.
